DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

Species A: Braking means are motors with large stepdown gear ratios

Species B: Braking means are hydraulic or electrical brakes

Species C: Braking means are mechanical abutments

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

2. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Species A: Claims 4 and 5

Species B: Claims 6 and 7
Species C: Claims 8-12

The following claim(s) are generic: 1-3, 6, 7, and 13-25.

3. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: US Pat. No. 5,759,107 to Nagel ("Nagel") teaches the invention of claim 1 including a medical examination chair (2, could be used for medical examination) for seating and moving a patient in three substantially perpendicular planes over a large amplitude, said medical examination chair comprising a primary arc (4) connected to a stationary column (8a) via a horizontal shaft (see Fig. 1) that constitutes a first axis of rotation, there being a second axis of rotation substantially perpendicular to the first axis of rotation that passes through first and second ends of said primary arc, said medical examination chair including a secondary arc (6) that is provided with a seat (30) and that is arranged inside said primary arc, being secured via third and fourth ends to said first and second ends respectively via an upper shaft and a bottom shaft, said primary and secondary arcs being suitable for performing rotary movement about said first and second axes of rotation respectively, said medical examination chair further including brake means for stopping said rotary movement suddenly (col. 4 line 56 – col. 5 line 13). Because claim 1 is not a contribution over the prior art there are no special technical features in claim 1. Because Species A, B, and C include mutually exclusive braking systems and their shared material does not include a special technical feature, Species A, B, and C lack the same or corresponding special technical features.

4. A telephone call was made to Applicant's representative Robert Patch on 4/24/09 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.
